

NEW 16-ROOM WING OPENED AT SIERRA VIEW DISTRICT HOSPITAL

Modern Facilities For Patient Care

PORTERVILLE - Sixteen patient-care rooms, plus sophisticated modern medical equipment are included in a 6,380 square foot new wing of the Sierra View District hospital that was opened to patients Monday.

The hospital now has a total of 53 beds, 38 of which are for medical and surgical patients; 15 are for specialized uses such as obstetrics, intensive care, and post intensive care.

The new wing, financed without a bond issue, cost $601,460 - building, $547,096 and equipment, $54,364. In the later planning stages is another wing, designed primarily to provide more space for the administrative functions of the hospital.

Rooms in the new addition, by design, do not resemble the typical hospital room. They are done in colors of tangerine and gold; each of the 11 x 14-foot rooms has its own private bath.

He is the first Vandalia club member to receive the Diamond Star, and is one of four California 4-H club members selected - two boys and two girls. The Diamond Stars will attend a Southern California Leadership conference at Riverside later this month, and will visit Washington D.C. in April of next year.

CANCER BENEFIT BALLGAME TONIGHT

Baseball fans will see the game as it never should be played; umpires, headed by Sam LaPresta will probably see nothing; big talk will no doubt replace big bats; but there will be fun and laughs for everyone as Porterville City Police, managed by Mike Brown, meet Tulare County Sheriff Deputies, managed by Rudy Pina, in their annual Cancer Society benefit ball game tonight, 8 p.m., in the Porterville Municipal ball park. Admission donation of one dollar goes to the Cancer fund; a color TV set will be given away.

LOCAL BOYS AGAIN WORKING IN PINEAPPLE FIELDS

KAHULUI - For the second summer boys from the Tulare county communities of Porterville, Lindsay, Strathmore, Terra Bella, Pixley and Tulare are working in the Hawaiian pineapple harvest for the Maui Land & Pineapple company, on the island of Maui, with a report from company officials stating, "The boys are doing extremely well."

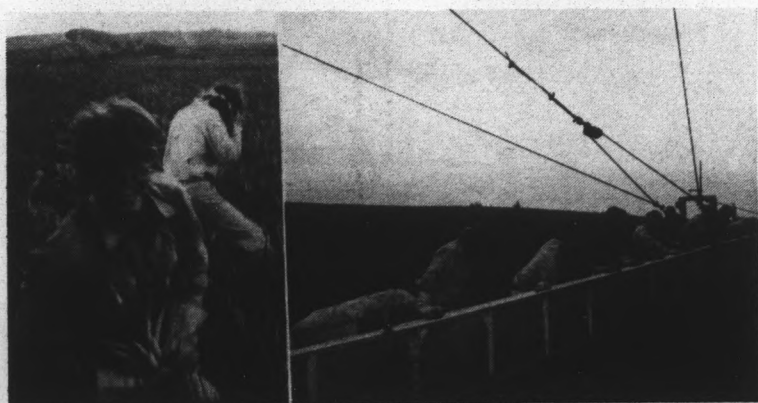

Pineapple field work is hard work, and the hours are long, but the Tulare county boys, many of them in their second year of summer employment with the company, are "doing an excellent job and for the first time in years we are harvesting fruit on schedule, and planting and ratooning all at the same time," according to the company report.

There is time, however, for more than work. Trips have been taken to the Haleakala crater, the Maui County Recreation

Clear, concise and easily understood is this modern, new signing at the intersection of Morton and Second, in Porterville. No one but a certified idiot could possibly get confused by arrows pointing in two directions back of a stop sign and in front of a rather small "do not enter" sign.

And who but engineers and planners, with their masterful interpretation of slide rules and computer print-outs, could have had the great vision to put three-way stops at this intersection, and let traffic headed north on Second roll right through in all directions - except that when someone decides to stop where there is no stop sign, or someone misses that small "do not enter" sign, there is, to put it mildly, a certain amount of confusion.

And who but enlightened public servants, elected to council seats, could announce plans for traffic signals all over town, yet never mention this monstrosity at Second and Morton.

Did we say monstrosity? For shame! We're rushing out right now to get our idiot papers certified.

Transplanted Elk Forming New Inyo County Herd

SACRAMENTO - Two female Tule elk that were transplanted along with three other elk in the Owens valley last winter as the nucleus of a new herd have given birth, spokesmen for the State Department of Fish and Game report.

The new Whitney herd, in an upland area between Lone Pine and Independence east of Highway 395 in Inyo county, now consists of a three-point bull, two adult cows, a yearling cow and the two calves.

All are doing well at the new site, the DFG said.

The five animals in the original group were transported by truck and trailer from the Tule Elk State reserve near Tupman, Kern county. One of the two male elk in the group has since left the transplant site and probably joined the bulls in another herd in the valley.

All three of the females in the new herd were equipped with radio telemetry collars so that their movements can be followed.

The transplant was undertaken in accordance with a policy of the California Fish and Game commission and with legislation signed by Governor Reagan. The Whitney herd will be limited to 100 elk.

Establishment of herd size was based on the amount of habitat available to sustain the elk, the DFG said.

SOME USES OF LEAD ARSENATE PESTICIDES TO STOP

SACRAMENTO - The California Department of Agriculture has set December 31, 1972 as the phase-out date for use of lead arsenate pesticides for insect control on ornamental and all but three agricultural crops.

Director C.B. Christensen said this move continues previous efforts to maintain and improve the quality of the environment by restricting the use of a persistent pesticide.

Lead arsenate may continue to be used on apricots, grapes and plums. On these crops, where only minimal amounts are needed, it serves two purposes: To control leaf and fruit feeding insects and borers, and to permit certain predators not affected by lead arsenate to continue to control mites. The grower thus will be aided in his pest management practices by encouraging biological control of mites.

Lamb crop in the United States this year, estimated at 12,442,000 head, is down four percent from the 1971 crop.

Central coast broccoli and cauliflower supplies continue light.

KETCHUM SUMMARIZES REASONS FOR "NO" VOTE ON CONTESTED MORETTI-REAGAN TAX REFORM BILL

SACRAMENTO - Commenting on his no vote on the Moretti-Reagan so-called tax reform bill, Assemblyman William M. Ketchum (R-Paso Robles) made the following statement:

"First and foremost is that while it does indeed afford much-needed and long-awaited property tax relief and makes a quick pass at school finance, it is in reality a major and massive tax increase bill. It is the Legislature's crisis response to its fear of passage of the equally bad Watson amendment. Such an attitude does not create good legislation.

The lawmaker went on to say, "the bill increases sales tax, income tax, in-lieu vehicle fees, and bank and corporation taxes, and puts a cap on tax rate limits of cities, counties and special districts and uses up the surplus of this year. The increases are far greater than needed to offset the property tax relief granted.

"There is even $14 million in welfare increases to help recipients pay the new sales tax. Nothing was said about how retired people will meet these increases nor for that matter young folks trying to get through college.

"My greatest reservations stem from the fact that the middle income families may find themselves paying more out than the amount of alleged relief they will get as homeowners. Additionally the bill does not meet the Supreme Court's ruling relative to school finance. While we can't guess what the court will do, the very real possibility exists that next year the people will all be faced with another huge tax increase to pay the bill for schools. Estimates vary but it could be over one billion dollars," Ketchum continued.

"Local control is down the tubes. From now on local entities will have to rely on the State for the solution to all their fiscal problems which means to me stronger and bigger centralized government. Perhaps this is what the people want. But I doubt it.

"Crisis legislation never solved anything for long. I don't honestly believe this will either. Time alone will tell," Ketchum concluded.

ANGUS SALE AT CAL EXPO SEPTEMBER 9

SACRAMENTO - Prize steers will be on display, also on the auction block, September 9 at the California State Fair during the Northern California Angus Breeders association's annual Steer Sale.

While not restricted to 4-H and Future Farmer members, the sale is of benefit to these youth groups in that it brings top steers under one roof, eliminating the need for youngsters to travel around the country looking for them.

The association, made up of Angus Breeders from throughout northern California, is a non-profit organization which earmarks funds from the sale for the promotion of the breed and for the awards it presents to 4-H and FFA youngsters for various projects.

We Only Heard

BY BILL RODGERS

DURING THE past year or so, many wind-blown statements have come from Ray Muller, chairman of the Tulare county board of supervisors, concerning his opposition to construction of a nuclear power generating plant in Frazier valley by the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power. From the first announcement that DWP was interested in the area - an announcement that could be used as a text-book example of inept public relations - opposition to the proposal was voiced by certain of the eco-nut establishment, and before long, Muller was doing a modern version of the Headless Horseman routine up and down the valley rallying opposition support from other boards of supervisors and lending a hand to the aforesaid eco-nuts who hit the opposition trail among local organizations, many of whose members followed along like proverbial sheep without any effort toward a pro and con study. Actually the sound and the fury turned out to be premature. Last week DWP officials announced the project was being dropped - an announcement that was handled much better, public relations wise, than the initial announcement - but which triggered another Muller wind storm. "They will never admit (meaning DWP) that public opinion changed their minds," he said. The truth is that geologic work on proposed site of the nuclear power plant uncovered three previously unknown faults. Before the Atomic Energy commission would have approved the site, conclusive proof would have had to be presented that no movement had occurred along these faults for 500,000 years. This the geologists could not do. So DWP had no choice but to pull out. Had the site been geologically satisfactory, DWP would still be there, Muller notwithstanding, and in spite of Muller's windy comment that 90 percent of the people in Tulare county opposed construction of the nuclear power generating plant. And when Muller said, as he often did, that after the initial meeting with DWP officials who came to Tulare county he could not establish contact with DWP, he was either intentionally confusing the issue or he was admitting his own inability to represent his county. After all, more than a few other people in Tulare county had no trouble maintaining contact with DWP... There were legitimate areas of concern involving the proposed nuclear power generating plant. Muller's position, as a county supervisor, should have been to develop pro and con facts in these areas, not

MATHIAS CO-SPONSORS WATER BILL THAT INCLUDES EAST SIDE PROJECT

WASHINGTON D.C. - Congressman Bob Mathias has announced that he has co-sponsored a bill with Congressman B.F. Sisk (D-Fresno) to provide for the orderly and phased construction of four water development projects that are important to the future economy and welfare of the State of California through a $1.6 billion omnibus bill "designed to meet the needs for water development projects throughout the state until the year 2000."

The omnibus water bill, H.R. 16170, would authorize the East Side division in the Central valley, the Consumnes River project in the Sacramento area, the Peripheral canal on the Sacramento Delta, and the Allen Camp dam and reservoir on the Pit river.

"By setting a time-table for appropriations and an orderly phased development plan," he said, "the bill will insure that San Joaquin valley water users will have the water they need in the future. The coordinated development of the state's water resources is in the best interests of the people living in the area and cheaper for the taxpayers in the long run."

The projects included in the bill and their principal features are:

East Side - Would take water from the Sacramento river through Hood-Clay pump connection, through the Folsom-South canal, through the new East Side canal to be built, to Bakersfield. Five dams and pumping plants along the route would provide water augmentation and control. Cost $1.1 billion. Start in 1979 with completion in the year 2000. Counties served: Calaveras, Stanislaus, Merced, Madera, Tulare, Kern, Fresno, San to continually accent the negative. Admitting that the proposed DWP project was not all good, it most certainly was not all bad, for had it actually materialized, economic benefit to Porterville, and Tulare county, would have been considerable - even possibly helping to bring in water for farmers.

Consumnes river - The initial phase calls for the construction of three dams and reservoirs to irrigate land in four counties east of Sacramento. Cost $204.5 million. Start in 1975 with completion in 1980. Counties served: Amador, El Dorado, Sacramento, and San Joaquin.

Peripheral Canal - Would provide for stable Delta water flows, guarantee fresh water releases into many points in the Delta area, help state and federal governments fulfill water obligations, greatly improve water quality and enhance the environment and recreational resources. Cost $121 million. Start in 1976 with completion in 1982. Counties served: Sacramento and San Joaquin.

Allen Camp - Provides a dam and reservoir to irrigate land in Lassen and Modoc counties changing forage type agriculture to cultivation. Cost $48.4 million. Start in 1978 with completion in 1984.

HALOGETON INFESTATION IN MONO COUNTY

SACRAMENTO - Halogeton, a highly toxic weed when eaten by livestock, has been found in Mono county, according to the California Department of Agriculture, the weed pest being scattered over about five acres.

This was the first record of an established infestation of halogeton in Mono county. It has previously been found in Inyo, Lassen, San Bernardino, and Kern counties.

Halogeton's first appearance in the United States was in Nevada during the 1930s, when suspicious losses of sheep began to occur, and tests showed they had died from eating this weed.

It was found that small amounts of the weed were rapidly fatal to sheep, and that it could also kill cattle. Toxicity is due to its high oxalate content.

Halogeton is native to dry, alkaline soils in Southeastern Russia, extending eastward in a band into northwestern China.

Final compilations show that gross returns from California farm marketings in 1971 reached an all-time high of $4.85 billion.

Potato digging is underway in the Stockton area.

Quarantine For Newcastle Disease Relaxed, But Not In Tulare County

SACRAMENTO - The California Department of Agriculture and the U.S. Department of Agriculture have reduced the size of the area under quarantine for exotic Newcastle disease in Southern California, stating that tighter enforcement of quarantine restrictions in a smaller area is the key to fighting the disease. Exotic Newcastle, which affects poultry and other birds, is not a hazard to consumers of eggs and other poultry products.

California areas released from quarantine include all of Imperial county; most of Santa Barbara county; northern sections of Ventura and Los Angeles counties; and eastern sections of San Bernardino, Riverside, and San Diego counties. The U.S. Department of Agriculture has also released areas in Arizona which include most of Yuma and Mohave counties. California areas remaining under quarantine include all of Orange county plus those portions of Ventura, Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Riverside and San Diego counties which lie south and west of the Santa Clara river and the crests of the San Gabriel, San Bernardino, San Jacinto and Laguna mountains - commonly known as the Coast Range. A few areas outside of Southern California will remain under quarantine due to isolated outbreaks of exotic Newcastle on individual farms or premises. These include small sections of Kern, Kings, Fresno, and Tulare counties.

Paul Kercher

PAUL KERCHER COMPLETES HIS DOCTORATE

PORTERVILLE - Paul R. Kercher, vice president and dean of students at Porterville college, recently completed his doctorate at the University of Southern California which he has been working on since September of 1968.

Title of his dissertation is "The Mailed Questionnaire As A Survey Instrument to Identify the Educational Views of California Voters." The dissertation has political implications including the findings that one's political party affiliation is a poor predictor of one's views on public educational matters and that one's level of education is the best predictor.

Dr. Kercher came to Porterville college in 1960 as dean of students after 13 years in the Laton High School district, the last six as district superintendent. He completed B.A. and M.A. degrees at the California State University of Fresno.

Transcendental Meditation Lecture Tonight

PORTERVILLE - The Students International Meditation society and the International Meditation society will offer an introductory lecture on Transcendental Meditation and the Science of Creative Intelligence at 8:00 p.m. tonight, August 10 in room B-3 of Porterville College. The lecture is free and open to the public.

Transcendental Meditation is a simple, natural technique that directs the mind to the source of its intelligence to the very power-house of its creative energy and prepares the individual for daily activity. Meditators report a decrease in tensions and annoyances, and an increased capability to handle problems, even emergency situations. Daily pressures of society are diminished as self awareness and happiness grow, it is stated.

The Thursday evening lecture will cover information about the technique of TM and its effects. The lecture does not include actual instruction in TM, but is a prerequisite to personal instruction.

The dove season will open Friday, September 1, continue through Saturday, September 30, reopen statewide Saturday, November 25, and run through Sunday, December 10.

Eighty-Five Percent Of Head Lettuce Harvested In California-Arizona Is Under Union Contract

SACRAMENTO - Current national efforts being directed toward a boycott of so-called "non-union" lettuce from California are based on a gross misunderstanding, says California Director of Agriculture C.B. Christensen.

"The truth is more than 85 percent of all head lettuce grown in California and Arizona is harvested under union contracts. Only a very small percentage of head lettuce is harvested by non-union growers, Christensen said, adding:

"It is completely untrue to refer to California lettuce as 'non-union.' Those who are promoting this boycott are setting union against union, since this is nothing but a jurisdictional dispute between the Teamsters Union, which is under contract with growers of over 75 percent of the head lettuce harvested and packed in California, and Cesar Chavez's United Farm Workers Union, with about 10 percent.

"California produces more than two-thirds of the nation's lettuce, under far better working conditions than are found in any other state."

Not only do California farm workers enjoy the highest wages of any farm workers in the United States, but they are also protected by nine out of ten recommended major labor laws, more than any other state, according to Christensen.

Lettuce workers in California during 1972 are making hourly earnings ranging from $5.70 to $7.41 per hour on a piece work basis; more than $25½ million was paid out by lettuce growers last year in harvest wages alone, he said.

Although there is no accurate method for estimating the total number of workers involved in lettuce production, there are around 170 Teamster Union contracts in California and Arizona. The United Farm Workers have four contracts with vegetable growers.

"Lettuce is very important to the economy of eight California counties, and it is doubtful if the workers, or the growers, or the business communities of those counties take very kindly to the idea of a boycott that would cause one of their major crops to rot, or be plowed under because it could not be sold," Christensen said.

Head lettuce means over $65 million a year to the economy of Monterey county, called the "Nation's Salad Bowl." Lettuce means over $31 million a year to the people of Imperial county, over $8 million to Riverside county, also $8 million to San Luis Obispo county, more than $6 million to Santa Barbara county, over $5 million to Santa Cruz county, nearly $5 million to Fresno county, and over $4 million to Contra Costa county.

The boys went to work in the pineapple fields shortly after close of the school year and will be returning the latter part of August.

In the crew from Porterville are: Mike Bennett, who moved up this year to counselor; David Steen, Rick Jones, Steve Schmid, Brian Otto, and John Corkins; from Lindsay: Phil Mayberry, who moved up to supervisor; Jon Martin, Rick Haas, and a former Lindsay boy, Phil Mains.

From Strathmore: Tony Slaton; from Terra Bella: Mark Stephens; from Tulare: James Jarrett; and from Pixley: Richard Smith, Craig Smith, and Randell Teves.

From Delano: Steve Perelli-Minetti; and from Bakersfield: Hugh Sill and Pat Cassidy. Also a counselor with the group is Casey Gaunt, of Los Angeles, whose grandparents live in Springville.

YUHA DESERT SKELETON MAY BE OLDEST HUMAN REMAINS FOUND IN HEMISPHERE

EL CENTRO - Human remains which might be the oldest found in the western hemisphere have been discovered on BLM land in California's Yuha desert by Morlin Childers, of El Centro.

Childers found a nearly complete skeleton in a shallow, rock-covered grave about 30 miles west of El Centro. Carbon 14 dating by Geochron Laboratories in Cambridge, Mass., indicates the remains are about 21,500 years old - plus 2000 or minus 1000 years.

Earlier, a human bone found in the La Brea tar pits in Los Angeles was tentatively dated as being about 23,000 years old. Dating was hampered, however, by insufficient material.

The remains of a man found in Peru were dated as being 17,500 years old. Previous to the La Brea and Peruvian finds, man was not believed to have inhabited the hemisphere before 10,000 to 15,000 years ago.

Childers said the age estimate for the Yuha man is based on one sample of caliche, or calcium carbonate material, deposited on one of the bones. The caliche might be younger than the human remains, having been deposited on the bones after death, or it might be older.

The latter could be the case if a nearby older deposit of calcium carbonate was washed to the grave, but this does not appear to be the case.

Modern Facilities

facilities with shower and safety rails, call systems, built-in cupboards and closets, and individual thermostat-controlled air conditioning.

Room carpeting - and hallways - is wall-to-wall; beds are all-electric; a console unit beside each bed allows the patient to control radio, television, nurse call, window drapes, lights and telephone.

Acute comprehensive care unit includes three patient rooms (there is space for a fourth) grouped around a control system that monitors all three patients at one time, utilizing a small TV screen and equipment that gives constant information on heart condition and provides a recorder and write-out electrocardiogram unit.

Ambulatory patients can be provided with equipment that continues the monitoring as the patient walks up and down the hallways of the new wing.

A nurses' station provides adequate space for physicians to dictate, and nurses to do their chart work. A drug room is located just off the station, also office for the in-service training director, and a conference room and library.

Also included in the new wing is a treatment room, a recovery room, a nurses' lounge, and a station to prepare intravenous solutions, with an air purifier in the work area.

Rates for the new patient rooms are $55 per day, comparable with the lowest hospital rates in the valley. Sierra View hospital rooms that include two patients are $46 per day per patient, and ward space is $42 per day. Intensive care room rates are higher.

Memorial Service

Memorial services and as participants in the Veterans' Day parade the following day. Evylen Hall, representing the Native Daughters of the Golden West, Tule Vista Chapter of Porterville, attended the Monday meeting to arrange details of the Old Timers get-together and annual dinner at the Porterville High School cafeteria, a traditional function of the Native Daughters for many years. Further details, including the dinner menu and price are to be given the committee following the September meeting of the Native Daughters.

Applications for Veterans Day queen candidates are to be available early in September, it was reported. Both a senior and junior queen will be chosen this year, with their courts.

Celebration committee will meet every Monday until October 23 in the Legion hall. Suggestions are always welcome from anyone, committee members state.
